

A landing page might look ok in a preview mode, but when accessed within a campaign the links to the style sheet and all images are not displayed correctly: this might happen if you try to "restore" a page by copying the source code from a scenario template under settings into the source code of a landing page within a campaign. The only way to restore the page is to re-load the according scenario template within the campaign.

It is not possible to copy the source code from a template and then paste it into a landing page within a campaign. To use a specific template from the general template section you need to create a new campaign, and when you select the template you need to press the "USE" button. Lucy will then translate all the paths (CSS, images, JS etc.) to that specific campaign.

From:
<https://wiki.lucysecurity.com/> - LUCY

Permanent link:
https://wiki.lucysecurity.com/doku.php?id=the_landing_page_within_a_campaign_does_not_get_displayed_correctly&rev=1459237558

Last update: 2019/07/25 12:52

